Committee Takes Plea to Legislature for the Funds

Panhandle citizens have requested an appropriation of $50,000 from the Centennial fund for the purpose of promoting the 1936 celebration in Texas, by the erection of the Goodnight ampitheatre in the Palo Duro State Park.

This request was made Tuesday before the Senate finance committee as a part of the $9,000,000 appropriation which is now being considered by the legislature. Monuments in the Panhandle were also suggester for Old Tascosa, Adobe Walls, Old Clarendon, and the rebuilding of Fort Elliott at Mobeetie.

Sam M. Brasuel of Clarendon, secretary of the Panhandle Centennial Committee, L. F. Sheffy of Canyon and T. E. Johnson of Amarillo made the plea for this fund.

Practically every historical center of Texas have requested funds from the legislature in order to make preparation for the Centennial with district celebrations, and

Five Men Canned From Buffalo Squad

Revamped Team Have Hard Job Against Edmunds

Five regular starters on the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes have been dropped from the squad by Coach Al Baggett for infraction of training rules.

Ralph Poe, center, Gene Lovelace, guard, and Pug Weaver, Coye Sandefer, and Costello Taylor, backs, were the men dismissed from the squad.

Immediately after the stunning defeat of the Buffaloes Saturday by the McMurry Indians, Coach Baggett called a meeting of the entire team. In the meeting Baggett called the boys together and told them that although they had made a miserable showing against McMurry, he was still confident that they were capable of some great football.

Baggett asked the boys to prevent any let down in spirit because of the disappointing defeat. Each boy pledged himself to cooperate with the team and the Coach in building a great morale and fighting spirit.

Following the meeting some of the boys went to the Homecoming dance, and broke training.

Three were dismissed outright from the squad. The other two were benched for the Central game and placed on probation by Coach Baggett, because he was not positive of the facts in their cases. Both turned in their suits because of squad pressure and criticism.

In speaking of the dismissal, Baggett said that while winning games was important to him, association with real men was more so; and further stated that any one that played on his football team had to prove himself a man in every sense of the word. In conclusion Baggett said that while the Buffaloes might not be as strong as before, they would all be in there fighting together.

He escaped from the local jail while J. H. Jowell was jailer. He was picked up in Roswell last week and confessed that he was wanted here on the charge.

Ruth Bryan Owen Charms Thousands In Talk Saturday

Five thousand people packed the stadium of the West Texas State Teachers College Friday Saturday morning at ten o'clock to attend the final program of a two-days celebration of the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the College's founding and to hear Ruth Bryan Owen, who had been secured to speak at this time as a mark of honor to the parents of present and past students of the institution.

Under cloudless skies, and with a flag-draped picture of the Great Commoner, William Jennings Bryan, behind her, Mrs. Owen swung immediately into her subject, which was an interpretation of relations between the United States and other countries as she has seen them in her work as United States Ambassador to Denmark.

First Mrs. Owen told of the three branches of work in which she is engaged in Denmark: The Office of the Council General, the Diplomatic Corps, and the Commercial Branch. All three are under the ambassador's personal supervision. In order to help her audience to realize the purpose of the United States ambassadors in foreign countries, Mrs. Owen devoted the entirety of her speech to that topic "Some people regard the Diplomatic Corps as a carnation in Uncle Sam's buttonhole," said Mrs. Owen.

"Other countries get to know the United States through three agencies, the newspaper accounts which are sent abroad, motion pictures, and Americans living abroad.

"I wish that agencies which send news abroad would sent those things which will give people of other lands a proper idea of life in our country. We found, by studying clippings, that 75% of the news sent abroad deals with crime. Is it any wonder that we

P. T. A. To Hold Carnival Tuesday

Architect Coming Friday Regarding College Dormitory

Wyatt Hendricks, consulting architect, will be here tomorrow to confer with Dr. J. A. Hill in completing the plans for the construction of the men's dormitory. PWA approved the loan and gift of $47,000 for this building in Washington last week.

While the loan has formally passed, a large amount of work yet remains to be done before actual construction may be started, states Dr. Hill. No detailed construction plans were made for the building by the local architects, and this will be among the first things which must be undertaken after the visit of Mr. Hendricks.

Mr. Hendricks is representing the Teachers Colleges of Texas before PWA in Washington, and believes that the other four projects of W. T. will finally be approved.

This will be the first dormitory for boys to be erected on the campus of W. T. It will house 30 of the 363 boys who are now attending College. There are two dormitories for girls, Cousins and Randall Halls. An application is pending before PWA for the erection of an addition to Cousins Hall.

The government will make a direct gift of $13,320 on this project and the balance is in the form of a loan which will be due in installments extending until 1961.

Mrs. R. A. Neblett is spending this week with friends in Galveston.

Organizations of Canyon Will Assist in Putting On Show

Next Tuesday night, October 30, a town carnival will be held in the various halls and rooms of the high school building, with the school and town organizations taking part.

Events of the evening will begin at 7 o'clock with a short program given by the primary department of the Elementary School.

Following this, booths will be open to the public. There will be fortune telling, fishing ponds, doll shows, shooting galleries, airplane shows, boxing and wrestling matches, weight guessing, picture shows, grab bags, and sales of balloons, squakers, and other souvenirs of the carnival.

The main show will take place in the high school auditorium with the following organizations contesting for the best stunt: The American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, Junior Woman's Book Club, the Rotary, College Farm Boys, Boy Scouts, and the Woman's Book Club.

The final event of the evening will be the crowning of the Queen of Hallowe'en.

People are asked not to eat the evening meal before coming to the Carnival, since hamburgers, pie, coffee, ice-cream, pop corn, and candy will be sold.

Those who will donate pies to be sold at the Carnival are requested to call Mrs. R. E. Ball, Phone 378.

No general admission will be charged.

A prize of $3.50 will be given the booth taking in the most money, and a prize of $3.50 to the best stunt in the main show.

Condron Attends Library Meeting at Memphis, Tenn.

Professor S. H. Condron returned Sunday from Memphis, Tenn., where he attended the meetings of the Southeastern and Southwestern Library Associations at which there were 400 representatives of libraries in seventeen states.

Mr. Condron found that each of the seventeen states has a Library Planning Commission like that in Texas, and every speaker on the program emphasized the importance of making books available to all of the people of the country instead of the 33 percent, most of them in cities, who can now secure good reading materials.

Those in attendance at the meeting believe that in the future libraries will serve wider territories and will be closely connected with institutions already in existence.

Palo Duro Exhibit Attracts Attention at the Dallas Fair

A splendid exhibit of the Palo Duro State Park was on display the past three weeks at the Texas State Fair at Dallas. The exhibit was made attractive by the artistic use of relics, furs, curios and rustic seats made from the cedars of the Palo Duro Canyon, combined with colorful and well lighted wall pictures and movies. According to Mrs. E. A. Kingsley, who was hostess at the booth during the Fair.

Those scenes which were taken of the Park were shown regularly and information regarding them given out by a microphone.

Palo Duro State Park was truly "put on the map." Each day the interest was more noticeable as the number of visitors that passed through the booth increased. Out of the 900,000 people who passed through the Fair gates, the Park booth received its full share of visitors. Thousands of people passed through the exhibit and there were times when the place was packed to capacity. Hundreds of interested men, women and children sought information about the "Grand Canyon of Texas." Many people expressed a desire to see this wonder and many said that they were coming to see it.

Those who made it possible to produce the exhibit, and those who put the exhibit in place deserve much credit for their untiring efforts and especially for the courteous and hospitable manner in which matters were generally conducted.

$119,274 Paid for 9,507 Cattle

Final buying of cattle by the government was concluded this week in Randall county, when the last purchases were received.

During the buying campaign, the government has bought 9,507 head, paying the farmers $119,374, according to the figures in the office of County Agent W. H. Upchurch.

An attempt was made this week to induce the government to buy another thousand head, but word was received from George W Barnes, assistant State Drouth Director, that all available funds had been spent.

If the buying campaign is continued, it must be under a different set-up, and under a different appropriation by congress.

Cattle raisers of the Southwest have urged that buying be continued owing to the shortage of feed, and the further fact that there promises to be little wheat pasture unless much rain is received at once. After the rains of last month, it was believed there would be fine wheat pasture for all remaining cattle, but this source of pasture has proven a disappointment when no additional moisture was received.

THE MELANCHOLY DAZE

McElroy's Herefords Win at Royal Show

Young Steers are Second and Third in Big Show

Second and third places were won at the Royal Stock Show at Kansas City by two loads of steer calves from the Hereford herd of Clyde McElroy, prominent Randall county breeder.

Mr. McElroy states that his steers had received no special preparation for the show, which is the greatest live stock exhibition in the west or southwest.

The winnings of the McElroy entry is the first made in the Royal since the days when C. O. Keiser prepared his special showing of Herefords and won in this class. Other breeders have shipped to the Royal, but the breeders of other sections uniformly have held the winning class.

Knowing the high class of the McElroy herd, commission men urged that the entry be made in the Royal. Mr. McElroy had planned shipping about this time, but had not considered the show until he was urged to do so. The winning of these places is a very high compliment to the quality of the McElroy herd, and the possibilities of this section as a stock raising section under the most adverse conditions the county has labored in many years.

Two Camps Continue Work at Palo Duro

Other Companies May Be Added for Winter's Work

Announcement was made Friday from Washington that two camps would remain at the Palo Duro State Park during the present three-months period, until the first of December. D. E. Colp, chairman of the Texas State Parks Board, has requested that two additional companies be sent to the Palo Duro for winter work. Army officials who have inspected the camp have reported that it is ready to receive the two companies if it is desirable to move them here from the mountains for winter work.

Major E. A. Kingsley was in Dallas for the week end where he conferred with Mr. Colp regarding the work in progress.

A new road grader pulled by a tractor has been received at the Park, which will make it possible to complete most of the road work which has been outlined during the present period, states Major Kingsley. The machinery will do all of the grading, which has hitherto been done by men with wheelbarrows. This leaves the men free to build rock walls along the grades, and to complete the roadbed ready for topping.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

About the only reason that Texas has for spending a large sum of money for the general election in November is the fact that eight constitutional amendments are proposed for the voters to pass upon. So far as the public officials of the state are concerned, the primary elections of this year settled these arguments. These amendments, if adopted, will be the law of the state for many years to come.

At the bottom of the election ballots are printed the eight amendments which are submitted to the voters. Time was when amendments were defeated without much discussion by the voters of the state. Six years ago great surprise was expressed when the voters adopted all amendments which were submitted by the legislature to the people. Since then, each regular session of the legislature has witnessed a great flock of amendments. Four years ago there were 50 proposals made by the members of the legislature, but only nine were submitted, and all accepted. Now that the people have started to accept amendments, the legislature will continue to submit them in large numbers. It would be much better to call a constitutional convention and make a complete revision of the constitution if amendments are really necessary. The cost would run much less than the submission of several amendments every two years.

A decided fight is being made on all of the amendments submitted for the November election by various groups of citizens. Probably no two groups are fighting the same amendment, but in view of the fact that this fight is being made, the chances are that all of the amendments will be rejected. As a matter of fact, there is probably only three of the eight which have any particular merit. Two of them may be classed as very bad; two are unimportant; the other is being fought by friends of the University of Texas.

The first amendment on the ballot is entirely misleading so far as its wording is concerned. It seeks to give the legislature the right and power to classify property for the purpose of taxation. "Taxation of real property shall be equal and uniform," is the first statement of this amendment. It is feared that if this amendment is passed, it will abolish the $3,000 homestead exemption. Furthermore, it gives the legislature power to classify property and make different rates for the purpose of taxation. This would create sectionalism and industrial fights in the legislature. We heard a lot about the power of lobbyists in the primary campaign this summer. The question naturally arises, if the lobbyists have such power with the legislature and they represent the interests of Texas, would it not result that the common property owners, who are unorganized, would pay the bulk of the taxes as a result of this classification? The News can see only trouble ahead if this amendment is passed.

The second amendment would give the commissioners court more authority in running the county government, allowing them to consolidate offices. Furthermore, towns and counties may enter into consolidation so far as duties of officers are concerned. This is a step in the right direction for making local government more economical. The amendment is a good one, although its wording is rather vague, and propably would call for a court decision to clarify the intent of the legislature.

The third amendment is the one which is the most dangerous, and should by all means be defeated. Its wording on the ballot is most deceptive, and chances are that it was worded in this manner for the purpose of leading the voters astray. It is the one which seeks to limit the taxing powers of the legislature to $22.50 per capita for each two year period. The fact is that few legislatures have appropriated a greater sum than this, and that most legislatures may be classed stingy in appropriation rather than extravagant, yet this amendment would curb the taxing powers no matter what might be the necessity. For instance, since this amendment was passed by the legislature the people of Texas have authorized twenty millions of dollars for relief, and there is pending an appropriation bill of nine millions for the Centennial, in addition to the expense of four special sessions of the legislature costing approximately another million. This means that 30 millions have been added to the tax bill by the present legislature, which is seeking in this amendment to curb the spending powers of future legislatures. This is very inconsistent. The legislatures of the future may be trusted to practice economy, just as has the legislatures of the past. The State Democratic convention at Galveston condemned this amendment as being very unwise. The good roads enthusiasts, and the school patrons of Texas see in this amendment a smooth scheme of the big interests to shove their tax burdens to the shoulders of the little tax payers. They believe that the adoption of this amendment will greatly reduce the available money for road building and for support of the common schools of the state, and if these institutions are to be supported as the people wish them, it will mean a very great increase in local taxes. This amendment is filled with dangers, and should be defeated at all costs. There is no justification in approving an amendment which might cause such great disaster in the state when there is no justification or need for its consideration.

The fourth amendment would abolish the present fee system for county officers in counties of 20,000 population and place all officers on a salary basis. The fee system of Texas has been greatly abused as was exposed by recent legislative investigations, and salaries have been greatly reduced by limiting the amount of fees which may be retained by the county officers. This amendment would entirely abolish fees for officers, turning all fees over to the county and giving the officers a straight salary. The amendment is a good one, unless perchance the salaries are set so low that good people cannot be obtained as officers due to the high cost of running for public office under the present primary system.

The fifth amendment makes it possible to create new counties, or consolidate counties, provided the new county shall have 900 square miles and a population of 50,000. Consolidation of counties has become popular in many states since the depression, as a more centralized government serving more people is operated at less expense than the smaller units. Several Panhandle counties could be operated almost at the cost of any one of them at the present time. However, the amendment provides that the people must approve the consolidation by a majority vote. If the amendment is passed there is no danger of a large county in any section of the state swallowing up all of the small adjoining counties. The amendment sets up the necessary machinery for consolidation if counties wish to make this step. The amendment should be adopted.

The next two amendments, six and sexen, refer to Home Rule cities. They are rather conflicting in ideas. Number six proposes that charters may be amended every 12 months, reducing the present time from 24 months. Advocates of this amendment state that cities should be allowed to change their charters whenever the people wish. Opponents say that to hold charter elections every year means added expense, and keeps the people in a turmoil sinc there are always people in large towns ready to stir up trouble and demand a charter election.

Number seven would extend the term of office in Home Rule cities from two to four years. Opponents of this amendment say that poor officials should never be continued in office for a four-year term, and that good officials may easily be re-elected. Advocates of this amendment state that public officials feel more secure in embarking upon a real program of city building and administration if they know that they have four years in which to develop their plans, and that the cost of elections every two years should not be necessary.

Considering these two amendments, if No. 6 is right, then No. 7 must be wrong; if the first is wrong, then the last should be adopted. The News is rather inclined to oppose the first and support the second, in view of the fact that longer tenure in office usually proves to be of value to the taxpayers. However, it is probably immaterial whether either of the two are adopted, leaving the constitution as it is, that is, changing the charter every two years, and electing officers every two years.

The last amendment on the ballot makes two changes in the amendment adopted four years ago as to the university lands located in 17 West Texas counties. Authority was granted these counties to tax this land at that time; this amendment adds school districts located in these counties. The former amendment makes these taxes payable out of the state treasury, while the present amendment makes it payable out of the Available Fund of the University. This means that the oil money which was derived to replace the shacks on the campus with modern buildings would be made available in the future for county and school district taxes. University and A. & M. friends state that these counties have plenty of big oil companies which they are not taxing to support the county and schools since their population is small, and they are opposed to the amendment.

Many voters go to the polls knowing little about constitutional amendments, and for this reason refuse to vote upon them. The wording of these amendments as printed on the ballots is very confusing, and the voters will be forced to study them carefully or he will make a mistake in approving or rejecting these measures.

THE BLIND CORNER

HOME COMING GAME LOST TO INDIANS

Traditional Rival Takes Scalp Of W. T. Buffaloes

Home-Coming proved a failure for the West Texas Buffaloes as they went down to an unexpected 17 to 7 defeat at the hands of a traditional rival, the McMurry Indians of Abilene.

Buffaloes Score First

With the stands filled with ex-students, the Buffaloes started off like a great ball club. After the Buffaloes had punted twice on the first down, they marched straight for 47 yards and a score the first time they tried carring the ball. The drive presented a mixed assortment of running plays and passes with Teague going the last 12 yards on a spinner. Teague kicked the extra point.

Indians Begin Scoring

After the first score nothing seemed to go right for the Buffaloes. Their offense failed to click, and a crippled bunch of Indians scored two touchdowns and a field goal.

Blackburn, midget back for the Indians, was the offensive star of the day. He passed to Pratt for the first touchdown, kicked the field goal, two extra points, and carried the ball over himself for the final score.

Holston and Teague played the best game in the backfield for the Buffaloes, trying to carry the burden themselves, and Poe and Wheelock, both at center, turned in the best game in the line.

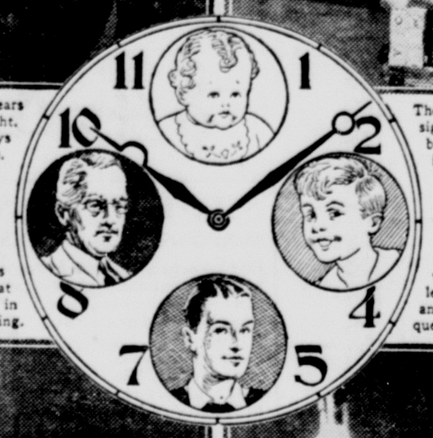
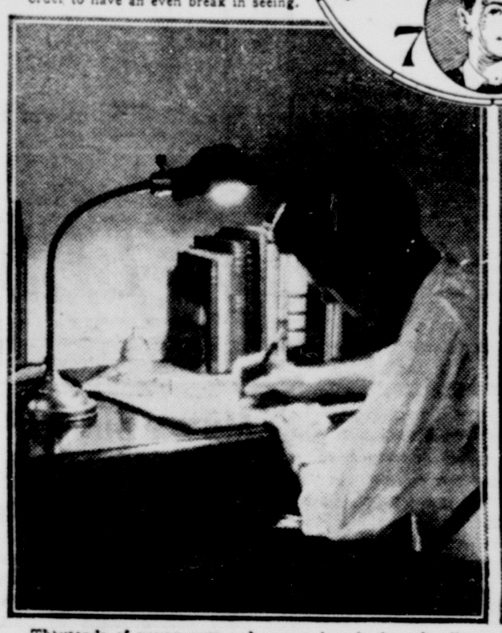
Science Reveals Why Eyesight Fades As Birthdays Increase

Of all men and women past 60 years of age, 82% have defective eyesight. Such is the penalty that man pays for his compromise with nature. Neglected teeth may be replaced, but damaged eyesight at best can be only partially restored. Good light and properly fitted eyeglasses are a great boon to old people. Since the pupils of their eyes are only one-third as large as those of young people, they need at least three times as much light in order to have an even break in seeing.

The average child is born with normal sight. All too soon, however, he begins to use his eyes for close seeing tasks, such as looking at pictures or playing with toys; often under poor lighting. Eyestrain and ocular defects are quick to result. No child should be permitted to use his eyes for close work under any but the best of visual conditions. Abundant, glareless light should always be provided, and the child's eyes examined frequently by a competent specialist.





Thousands of young men and women in schools and colleges throughout the country are needlessly wearing out their eyes long before their time by reading and studying for long hours under poor visual conditions. Surveys show that 40% of college students' eyes are defective. What a sad commentary that in fitting himself for the battle of life, the student is unnecessarily imposing a serious handicap on himself.

Nature never intended children's eyes to be used for reading, writing and study. She intended that eyes be used for looking at distant objects, under large amounts of natural daylight. When a child does close visual work indoors under inadequate and glaring light in defiance of Nature's laws, he pays the penalty in eye defects. Statistics show that one out of every five children in grammar school has defective vision.

The Umbarger 4-H Club held its meeting in the Umbarger school house on Monday last. The Club members, who were present, sang songs and then turned over the meeting to Miss Bass who then told us in detail about her trip to the Dallas Fair with other 4-H Club members. Later the pajama pattern was discussed, and one pair cut out.

Mrs. W. Jensen and Mrs. Clarence Beckman were our guests during the meeting. Mrs. Beckman is taking up the duties of sponsor for the Club whose next meeting will be held Nov. 14th.

YOU CAN BUY NEW LAMPS BUT Not NEW EYES

CHILDREN never think about their eyes. Unconsciously, they abuse them. Any lighting, good or bad, suits them as long as they can possibly see. They expect you, the parents, to know. You must accept the responsibility for protecting their eyes during early life.

Check the lighting in your home right now. You, as well as your child, will benefit from the safety and convenience of proper lighting. Always buy Mazda Lamps. They are truly economical. Remember, the true price of any lamp is written, not on the price tag, but on your lighting bill.

McCormick Catches Pair Tuesday With New Stolen Auto

Officers are often criticized for stopping suspicious cars and drivers, but such action on the part of County Patrolman Wayne McCormick, about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, resulted in the capture of two youthful bandits and the recovery of a new Ford car.

Seeing a new car bearing an Oklahoma license on the highway north of town, McCormick became suspicious and stopped it. Two women and two youths were in the car. He instructed them to drive to town where he began to question them.

Satisfied that they were not the owners of the car, McCormick placed the four in jail. At the time of arrest the two youths gave their names as Hoyett Little and Joe Morgan. Both were 19.

Tuesday morning after lengthy questioning, the women were charged with vagrancy, and later released.

In response to a wire, the Oklahoma Highway Department notified local officers that the license number on the car held here had not been issued for it. A check through the National Automobile Theft Bureau located the owner at Colorado, Texas.

After McCormick had brought the two men to town early Tuesday morning, one of them attempted gun-play. Both men had been placed in jail, and at the insistent request of Little, McCormick allowed him to back to the car purportedly to get a billfold. As McCormick stood on one side of the car, Little went to the other side and reached for a gun hidden over the sun-visor of the machine. His hurried grab for the gun missed and it fell into the car seat. McCormick grabbed the pistol, a .45 calibre gun, before Little could reach it. Another gun was found over the other sun-visor.

Shortly before Sheriff Dick Gregory and Constable Jack Delaney of Colorado arrived in Canyon Tuesday night, local officers had secured confessions from the two boys. This was later reduced to writing and signed by one of them.

When faced with the facts of their crimes, the two admitted that they had given the officers aliases. They admitted their identity as J. W. Mann and Doyle Slaughter.

According to their confessions, the two stole an automobile in Sweetwater Saturday night and drove to Loraine. Near there on the side of the highway at the point of a gun, they held up a couple, robbing them of their money and a new Ford car just purchased that day. They had driven 1,400 miles before being caught.

The two were taken to Colorado Tuesday night.

Art Exhibit From Washington Shown at the Museum

A new exhibit may be seen in the art gallery of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society until October 31. This exhibit is one sent out by the American Federation of Arts, Washington, D. C.

Although there are forty mounts in the exhibit, they all deal with one subject, "The use of Plant Forms in Ornament." Designs shown are suitable for dress and drapery textiles, silver, pottery and other household furnishings.

According to Forest Grant, Director of Art, High School Division, New York City, who was one of the judges who selected these designs, says, "The machine age, with its cog wheels, riviting machines and purring motors has furnished another sort of rhythm to those who are responsible for much of the art of today. To many this movement away from nature has meant loss of beauty and design."

The inexhaustible wealth of ideas in plants is today, however, more available than ever before. With the idea of demonstrating the myriad uses of plant forms by designers of all ages, the Metropolitan Museum of Art arranged a comprehensive exhibition composed of the Museum's objects decorated with motifs inspired by plants. As a result of this exhibition three New York High Schools and seven schools of design set their students problems in design.

From these studies, the exhibit shown at Canyon was selected by a committee composed of Mr. Grant, James C. Boudreau, Director of School of Fine and Applied Arts, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, and Richard F. Bach, Director of Industrial Relations, the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Besides the customary labelling of the mounts on display at the museum, a short discussion and interpretation appears beneath each one, giving to the whole exhibit greater meaning to the casual visitor than would otherwise be obtained.

The Museum, and the Mary E. Hudspeth Art Room in which the exhibit appears, are open each day of the week from two to six. There is no admission charge to either the Museum or the exhibit.

MALE PEP SQUAD NEEDED

Even though you can't make the winning touchdown, boys, you can have a great influence and part in making it.

Don't sit on the grandstand hoping your team will win; help it. Wake up to the fact that a boys' pep squad is just as important as a girls'. Organize it; get a leader; help the Purple and White Peps, and let your team know you believe in it.

Male voices give power to the yells and songs. They make every word reach farther in strength and influence.

Let the other towns know you are backing your team, and watch them step back.

You're needed; so heed the call!

First Six Weeks Grades Better Than Average

Among those whose names appear on the honor roll for this six weeks, there are six students who made all A's. This is above the average of straight A reports for the first six weeks of a school year. Fourteen percent of the students of the high school are on the honor roll, three percent of the students having all A's.

Students who qualify for the honor roll must make A's or B's. The following are the names of the students who qualified for the honor roll during the first six weeks of school which ended October 12th.

Miss Grace M. Clark entertained the senior class last Monday night with a nut party. Forty-one of the senior nuts were present.

As the nuts entered the home of the hostess they were each given a card and asked to get every person present to sign his or her name on the card. The one getting the most names or all of them received a prize. Other interesting games carrying out the nut idea were played.

At last came the time to find a partner, so each boy and girl present was given a half peanut, the holders of corresponding halves were partners for the serving of refreshments of lemonade and doughnuts.

SIDEWALKS OR PAVEMENT FOR PEDESTRIANS

Students, did it ever occur to you that the sidewalks were for the pedestrians, and the streets for the automobiles.

Years ago, this city put pavement on Fifth Avenue to make it easier for the cars and other conveyances to travel. It is very dangerous for we students to walk in the streets. We never know what kind of a driver we will meet or which way he will go.

Canyon is very fortunate in having sidewalks for the pedestrians, but it seems as if the students do not know what the walks are for, and repeatedly walk in the streets. Fellow students, last week, in this column, we wrote to the residents of Canyon, asking for pavement in front of the grade building; first, let us show the townspeople that we know what pavements and sidewalks are for.

Mary May Harrison and Irene Thompson were in Amarillo Thursday.

Anna Kathryn Overton has been ill since last Friday.

Where, Oh Where Has My Locker Gone?

"What the duece?" "Hey, where's my locker?" "What have they done to this locker room?" Such slang expressions and ejaculations were heard between 8:30 and 9 o'clock Monday morning.

One blond haired senior girl said she heartily disapproved of the change of lockers because she had to walk ALMOST a mile to get to her locker.

The girls' lockers run in a north and south direction facing east and west. There is much more room between the two rows of lockers, and this enables the basketball girls to dress more quickly, but oh! those extra steps!

Debate Club Elects Officers; Discuss Material For Use

A called meeting was held Friday morning for the purpose of electing officers. The following were elected:

Bob Orton, president; Hal Gamble, secretary; and Mable Schmitz, treasurer. Several committees were created, but only one was organized. Mable Schmitz, Hal Gamble Irene Thompson and Jack Oldham were appointed as reference committee.

Home Coming Set For Nov. 3; Tulia Game Is Feature of Day

Gridiron Gossip

BY A GRIDSTER

This column will be written each week for the purpose of giving the reader, an individual view of a football player, concerning the different events which arise at various intervals.

Overton Donnell is back in school after a three-day stay in bed, because of a broken leg suffered on the practice field, Tuesday, Oct. 16.

A well known sports writer is reported to have said that the outcome of the Tulia-Hereford game decided the district championship. Well! What of it? The dope bucket has been upside down all season, so this statement is really giving the Eagles another advantage at the district crown. The Eagles are really intending to whip that bunch of Vega gridsters in order to get to Tulia, and Hereford, and continue the season undefeated in conference tilts, regardless of dope-bucket or opinion.

A tough game will confront the Eagles next Saturday night when the boys from Vega invade the home gridiron for the purpose of defeating the Eagles.

From The Principal

The reports upon the work of the first six weeks of school have been mailed, and interested parents have been studying them. It is through such a study, by those interested in the welfare of the pupil, that the steps in parent-teacher co-operation begin.

The conference between the parent and teacher is next. There may be threshed out such matters as the complexes of the pupil; his fears, his interests, and his ambitions. The teacher deals with many pupils, and has only a short period of time in which he may discover conditions pertaining to the child's life; therefore, the teacher is often unable to analyze the cross currents which sweep the life of the individual. In various contacts the individual often holds submerged questions and remarks which would be invaluable to the teacher.

The mother or father, from their years of knowledge of the child, can give the teacher numerous facts which are of value.

The teachers of the high school would appreciate this aid.

Manager Says His Job Is Not Bed Of Roses

As Bud takes time out from working out a "charlie horse" to find a new pair of shoulder pads for a distressed athlete, one is able to get an idea of the work Bud has to do.

Bud would probably be in more of a quandary if it were not for Assistant Coach Sanders and the mascot, W. J. Wooten, Jr. Mr. Sanders helps in the dressing room, while W. J. does most of the field work.

Although Bud leads a strenuous life in the club house, he is compensated by being allowed to attend all games free of charge. Also, at the end of the year he is rewarded with a manager's sweater.

Home Ec Classes Choose Projects

The Home Economics classes of Canyon High School filled-in home survey sheets one day last week, answering questions about the conveniences of the homes. After filling in these sheets, the girls were more able to decide upon home projects, a unit of home work which is required by the state.

When weighing for th ispurpose, many of the freshman home economics girls were found to be under weight. Many of the underweight girls are trying to gain weight.

Homecoming for the ex-students of Canyon High School will be held November 3rd.

The day will be full of events celebrating the homecoming of the exes.

In the afternoon the Eagles will meet the Tulia Hornets on the Buffalo Field in what is expected to be one of the toughest games of the season.

That night the ex-student banquet will bring to a close the celebration.

According to Superintendent I. B. Carruth this homecoming will be one of the largest in history of the school. He urges all ex-students to attend the gala affair.

Old Styles, Queer Styles and Styles On Our Campus

Ever since Eve was put here on earth, fashions gained a prominent place in every day life and are eventually repeated in some way or another.

In the days of our mothers and grandmothers, bustles and Empress Eugenie hats were very stylish, but don't we have the same thing now?

And crochet!

When mother was a girl, she sat for hours patiently crocheting, but look at daughter, oh! Crocheted sweaters and suits, caps and capes, bags and gloves are the last word about town.

But have you noticed the "kite" hats! They are so called because they either "fly toward the face" or "fly away from the face." There are and probably always will be, of course, all sorts of shapes, round, square, triangular, and what-not. Some of the kite hats are exactly one foot long.

The neck lines are widely varied this season, probably the most popular of these are the high-cut shirt-waist collars.

Skirts and sweaters, swagger suits, and don't forget those "swanky" sailor frocks which are so last-minutish this season in Canyon High School. Red, black, and brown seem to be the predominating colors on the high school campus. Checks, stripes, and every kind of plaid seem to be headed for a glorious future.

These black and yellow plaids a foot and a half square, the butcher-boy frocks, and inverted tin-pan hats may be a trifle startling, but think of the improvement over Eve's fig leaf, or was it leeaves.

Public Speakers Have Luncheon Project Monday

The luncheon held by the Public Speaking Class in the Home Economics Room Monday, October 22, was one of the projects in after dinner speaking upon which the Public Speaking Class is working.

Wade Johnson was toast master. After dinner speeches were given by Jackie Pitts, Roland Black, Chris Wooten, and Ralph Rusk. Mary Collins gave a reading. Superintendent I. B. Carruth concluded the program by praising the work of the Public Speaking Class.

Faculty members present were Superintendent Carruth, Principal John B. Pope, Jr., Coach Cleveland Jones, and Miss Irene Angel, the instructor in public speaking.

BASKETBALL GIRLS RESUME PRACTICE

Basketball practice was resumed Monday afternoon after a lapse of a week due to the absence of Miss Annis Smith, Coach.

There were eighteen girls out for practice and more are expected for the practices to follow.

Conceited? No, Just Proud

Conceited?

No, just proud of their new suits.

With chests protruding, eyes dancing, cocked hats balanced at various ridiculous angles, vain noses turned triumphantly skyward, the band marched to the beat of the drum into the stadium Friday night. Forward the purple and white capped figures strode, looking with condescending pity on all other members of creation who had the misfortune of not being able to pound a drum, squeak a clarinet, or blare a baritone.

They were thinking of their suits so much that they couldn't make that music boom, though.

Eagles Drub Happy Jacks 20-0 In Conference Game Fri.

By a score of 20 to 0, the Eagles drubbed the Happy Jacks, Friday night, in the second conference game of the season.

This is the first time in the history of the schools that the difference in the score has been over 7 points and three of the last four games have been ties.

The thrill of the game came early in the third quarter when Ed Brooks took the pigskin around right end and ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

Willard Childers accounted for the other two touchdowns by line plunging.

At the half the Canyon pep squad girls went out on the field and formed a purple "C", a white "H" and a purple "S." They kneeled down, domino-style and then came up in the same manner.

Sr. Home Ec. Club Elects Officers

The Senior Home Economics Club was organized Tuesday night, Oct. 15, at the home of Marielle Oldham. The club consists of sophomores, juniors, and seniors, who are taking, or have taken home economics.

Rubye Foster was elected president of the club, and Marielle Oldham was chosen vice president. The club selected Faye Plaster for secretary and treasurer. Thelma Bryant and Beulah Brasuel are social and program chairmen.

Miss Fannie Sue Brasuel, sponsor of the club, was presented with the blocks for a friendship quilt, which were made by the Freshman Home Economics Club, during the summer.

Orton Injured In Chemistry Class

The small explosion occurred when Robert and Bill Cone were performing an experiment with sodium hydroxide. The main force of the explosion struck Robert about the face and in the eyes, while Mr. Aubry Fox and Bill received minor burns. The explosion was not serious.

Home Ec Classes Go To Market

Mr. Carl Laughery invited the home economics girls to visit his meat market Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. They watched the process of meat cutting and studied the different kinds of meat.

"The girls learned more from their visit to the market than they would from an entire year's study of meat," said Miss Fannie Sue Brasuel, home economics instructor.

HOME EC CLUB MEETS

Assembly Programs Separate; Goodrich and Dickey Speak

The high school had its first separate assembly for the boys and girls in the study hall and in the auditorium, Thursday afternoon of last week. The Reverend Charles Dickey was the principal speaker for the boys, and Miss Lois Goodrich spoke to the girls.

Rev. Dickey spoke to the boys with "Play the Game Square," as his topic. "Play the game squarely," he said, "and you will always win. It may not be the score, but you will win a name." He urged clean sportsmanship, and explained how we sometimes mis-use the word "sport." "To be a sport," he said, "is to give our little part in any worthy enterprise. The way to make Happy happy," he added, "is to beat 'em and make 'em like it."

Mr. Carruth mentioned several schools which have a boys' pep organization. He urged the boys to take steps of that kind in Canyon. "Why can't we have one?" he asked. "Haven't we got as many he-men as they have? We need not come to the game if we are not going to yell."

Mr. Carruth also urged the boys to take more part in the noon hour recreations.

The girls' assembly had the following program:

Lorene Bessire, violinist, accompanied on the piano by Marjorie Wilkinson, played "the Old Refrain," by Fritz Kreisler.

"Oh Susanna" and "S-M-I-L-E" were sung by the assembly.

"What a Young Girl Should Know," by Margaret Culkin Banning, was read by Miss Lois Goodrich. Cleanliness in athletics, the appearance of the girls' locker room, and how it could be improved, were also discussed.

The object of this arrangement in the assemblies was to make the assembly programs more enjoyable in the future.

Eagles Play Vega Here Sat. Night

Eagles will clash with the Vega eleven Saturday night under the flood lights of Buffalo Field.

The Eagles have played the Vega team only once; that was in 1932, when the Eagles defeated Vega 24 to 0.

The Eagles have been successful in winning the first two conference games of this season by their victories over Farwell and Happy. The game Saturday with Vega will be the third conference game of the season, which promises to be a close game.

The Vega team has won all of its games, except two, Claude and Tulia. The Eagles have only lost one game, and that to Panhandle.

The telephone had its birth 58 years ago in a make-shift Boston research laboratory, where Alexander Graham Bell watched a tiny straw attached to the eardrum of a human skull trace a wavering line on smoked glass.

Since then, telephone history has been told in countless scientific problems solved. Bell Telephone Laboratories, research arm of the telephone service, is the reason you now may talk across continents and seas, that most telephone wires are underground, that a single long distance line may carry four simultaneous conversations.

Research scientists at the Laboratories search constantly for inventions and improvements that may be devoted by the Southwestern Company, and the other Bell operating companies, to keeping the price you pay for telephone service low.

Back of this fundamental policy is the belief that in an undertaking planned like the telephone service for the long pull, what is best for the telephone user becomes in the end the policy that will bring us the sounder, more enduring measure of success.

Major Kingsley is highly pleased with the progress which has been made on the road work. Since the first of the month each of the companies has been increased to more than 215 men, which has greatly speeded up work on the Park.

A broken concrete mixer has finally been repaired, which will allow the completion of the bridge over Timber Creek, thus completing several miles of the permanent roadbed.

The forms have been completed for the ceiling of the first story of the lodge building's big reception room, and this concrete work will be poured within a few days. Work on the lodge has progressed slowly throughout the summer owing to the lack of materials, but it is now believed that no further delay will be experienced.

The first dam in the Park was emptied last week in order to make some repair work. It is expected that approval will be received for at least two more dams to be constructed during the winter months.

Several national park officials visited the Palo Duro last week and expressed pleasure at the progress being made in the construction work.

It was announced by the national park officials that an agreement had been reached with Fred A. Emory whereby all difficulties regarding the land title had been settled, and that no further delay would result in work at the Park as a result of the title to the Park area.

The exhibit at the Dallas State Fair from the Palo Duro State Park was pronounced most excellent by Major Kingsley, who stated that large crowds showed interest in the new Park. He is expecting that many visitors from down state will drive to the Palo Duro during the coming months as a result of the advertising given at the Fair.

Work on the Goodnight Trail, leading to the Park is progressing rapidly, and all of the caliche work should be completed during the next three weeks. The highway department has set the topping as one of the important jobs in the Panhandle, and this should be considered just as soon as the caliche work is completed. However, it may seem advisable to await spring weather to do the topping, according to highway engineers.

Faculty Members Delight Crowds With Old Play

Five thin spirals of smoke. The reeking pungency of kerosene lamps. Hot popcorn vended by white aproned callers. Old melodies recalling, for some, pleasant memories of another occasion, perhaps, when "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room" was presented with not so much of the burlesque. An ideal opportunity was at hand for the presentation, with ample freedom for the play of amateurs and of a gifted professional, C. Wesley Batchelder. It is easy for us to advance conjectures concerning the past of this gentleman. No matter how gifted a person may be, there is necessarily a call for more or less practice to make the accomplishment look like the real thing. The scene wherein the hero had the illusion of snakes in the corner of the room reminds us of the song, "Pink elephants on the window, pink . . . " Doesn't it? How true, indeed, is the old adage, "Practice makes perfect."

That Timid Soul

Evidently, our friend, the sociology prof, has not always been the meek, timid, retiring soul that we are accustomed to think of when we hear his name called. It is apparent that Charlie Ruggles is to have a little bit of wholesome competition for his enviable position in the minds of the American people.

Wedlock Unites Kindred Spirits

The widely-read belle of Cedarville could always be counted upon to properly balance the stage with her dignity and even ponderous utterances. It was with great joy and relief that the vast throng witnessed the union of the two kindred spirits and the happy termination of such a beautiful courtship.

The villain was Savage during the entire performance, and well might he be with all the sibilant disapproval which he drew forth upon every appearance.

Landlord Slade was, we perceive, born some forty years too late. Especially, is this statement true considering his repertoire of songs. He might have done much good were it possible for him to have lived in a previous period. Honest men were almost as much of a rarity then as nowadays.

Sad to say, our Little Mary is not as "grown-uppy" as we had thought. Everyone received a distinct shock when she made her appearance for the first time. More than likely, though, the change was caused by the realization of the evil influence that was so near.

Bad Example

"Coach" portrayed realistically the ill-elffect that bad company has on youngsters. He was an object of pity throughout the evening. At least one elderly lady shed tears of distress for his woeful plight.

The play was a fortunate occurrence for some of the cast. The philanthropist looked extremely natural and indigenous. Philanthropists are truly born, not made.

Audience Revolts

Every person present revolted upon observing the scant attention paid by young Slade to his father's lofty precepts and teachings in honesty. Several in the audience arose to tear him limb from limb when he murdered his poor father, but the young scapegrace made a hurried and timely withdrawal.

The utmost depths of every heart were plumbed when the facts were learned in regard to the final destination of the landlord's good wife.

Reforming Influence

The performance, as a whole, was a spectacle such as caused women to faint and strong men to weep. Every member of the huge audience left the auditorium with a clear picture of the evil effects of strong drink in mind. The production is to be counted as a tremendous success, for many good resolutions (though short-lived) were made.

Indeed, we never know our associates as well as we think.

Among the Canyon girls who were home for the Silver Jubilee Anniversary celebration were Misses Mary Bell Mitchell and Mary Orton from Childress County; Misses Hettie Lou and Elva Lee Bagley, Oressa Hastings, Elizabeth and Jewell Faulkner and Annie Mac Vetesk. They all left Sunday evening for the vairous places of residence.

Miss Geneva Griffin of Borger spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. Dan K. Usery and Miss Frances Usery.

N. E. McIntire is visiting his mother and relatives in Nocoma this week.

The proposed ampitheatre, which would seat 30,000 persons, it was explained, could be utilized as a site for a regional pre-centennial celebration and would be a lasting memorial to the pioneers of the plains country. No funds were asked for helping defray the expenses of the celebration in Palo Duro or at other sites where programs will be held in 1935 in advance of the main exposition at Dallas.

Members of the centennial committee, headed by Senator George Purl of Dallas, seemed impressed with the fact that the Panhandle representatives did not seek funds for the staging of pageants but on the other hand asked help only in financing permanent improvements and monuments.

are thought of as a lawless people?"

She then showed that moving pictures, which, at home, are mere fun, designed for relaxation of the tired, are misunderstood in far countries and taken to be real everyday life, giving people the impression that culture and refinement are unknown in our vast country. Interspersed with facts which she gave were anecdotes which made the talk brilliant and captivated her audience with her charm.

Mrs. Owen then told how the representatives in other lands try to create in the embassies typical American home life, so that, thru the friendly intercourse which develops between people who enjoy the same flowers and food and pictures and music, people of different nations are enabled to understand and love each other.

Essence of Diplomacy

"Somewhere at the heart of all these endeavors lies the essence of diplomacy," said Mrs. Owen. Through friendliness and honesty in all dealings can nations at the present time and in the future come to feel that they are all neighborhoods of a small world is Mrs. Owens' belief. Distance and time have been almost annihilated by modern inventions such as radio and airplanes.

Many Loved Father

In the great throng which listened to Mrs. Owen for an hour almost without moving, there were hundreds who had loved and admired her father. Many of these expressed the belief that she is carrying on her life and diplomatic work according to the ideals which William Jennings Bryan always enunciated.

The other two speakers on Saturday's program were Mrs. Harvey Cash, of Canyon, who represented the mothers of students, and Judge R. Walker Hall of Amarillo, who represented the fathers of students.

Mrs. Cash opened her speech with the statement that "When we unite to pay tribute, all hearts are united." Her speech led immediately into the subject of the fathers and mothers and their responsibilities in rearing children. "The first and greatest university is the home. Mothers and fathers need to hang lanterns in their homes to guide their children." She talked of the pioneer fathers and mothers, and of the fathers and mothers during the depression. Mrs. Cash's address was simple and unpretentious, yet with a direct beauty and insight that was thoroughly appreciated by her vast audience.

Judge Hall spoke in behalf of the "daddies and granddaddies" to whom the Saturday's program was dedicated. "Wherever your treasure is, there your heart is also." Relating his speech to this quotation, he pointed out the loyalty to W. T. S. T. C. of parents who send their children to school here. Judge Hall spoke with directness and with a great deal of humor.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cole attended the Amarillo Little Theatre production of "King Herod" last Monday night.

Judge S. B. Orton returned from Chicago and other eastern points of interest Sunday afternoon.

Fort Worth, and Hon. Guy Rogers, of the class of 1913, and former District Judge of Wichita Falls.

Other ex-students who appeared briefly on the program were J. B. Speer of Morse, president of the Ex-Students Association of W. T., Mrs. Carl Perlman of Memphis, Ernest Cabe, Jr., of Pampa, Herschel Coffee of Canyon and William Dawes of Lovington, N. M.

Recalling the foundations on which the building of the college during twenty-five years were laid, each of the speakers paid tribute to the educational statesmanship of presidents R. B. Cousins and J. A. Hill, and cited the fruits of their efforts as seen in the growth of the college and in the many positions of trust and importance in which graduates have been placed. It was recalled also that the growth of Northwest Texas and of the Canyon college have gone hand in hand, the college carrying a full share of the burden of leadership in the rapid development of the quarter century.

Fort Worth Party By Plane

Leaving Fort Worth about six o'clock Friday morning, a party consisting of W. J. Rattiken, Ex-Senator and Mrs. R. A. Stuart, W. J. Rattiken, Sr., and Miss Ima Kuykendall, arrived in Canyon in time for the first program at ten o'clock. All except W. J. Rattiken, Sr., are ex-students, dating their first experiences on the West Texas State Teachers College campus when riding horseback or in buckboards was the usual mode of transportation. Miss Kuykendall came as the official representative of the Fort Worth Public Schools.

Afternoon Program

Judge Henry Paulus of Yoakum, vice president of the State Board of Teachers College Regents, voiced the keynote of state pride which characterized the entire program of the afternoon. He said, "No matter what sacrifice it may entail, I believe the State of Texas should be willing to spend time and money and effort to make its Centennial an event long to be remembered; Texans need to remind themselves of their heritage and set about to live up to it."

John E. Hill, of Amarillo, another member of the State Board of Regents presided during the afternoon session. He stated that it was fitting that Mrs. Phebe K. Warner, woman of vision, and a leader in all work for the betterment of Northwest Texas should open the program. Mrs. Warner compared the West Texas State Teachers College to a lantern, hung high that the traveller might find his way across unfenced plains to his destination. She reminded her hearers that the college in Canyon had furnished four college presidents to Texas, R. B. Cousins, R. L. Marquis, H. W. Morelock, and J. A. Hill; that it had grown from the time when it was proud of its graduating class of three to the present year's class of 192, and that its graduates are not numbered among the unemployed. Mrs. Warner said in closing, "This college has suffered misfortunes by fire and pestilence and was in the past; it may have other trials in the future, but neither physical misfortune nor political scheming can destroy its spirit which will carry it on to further service."

The Texas Centennial address of Judge George O. Wilson, who flew from Dallas to present this topic, was received enthusiastically by the audience. Judge Wilson emphasized the fact that Texas can gain educationally, spiritually and materially by having a great Centennial.

Friday night all visitors found relaxation and fun in "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," an old time melodrama which was presented in the manner in vogue at the turn of the century.

A barbecue was served Saturday noon to a crowd estimated to reach 3,000.

S. A. BILLINGTON DIED AT CLOVIS SUNDAY

S. A. Billington, former citizen of Canyon, died Sunday at Clovis. The funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Billington conducted a shoe repair business while a citizen of Canyon. The family moved to Clovis only a few months ago, and his death came as a distinct surprise to his many friends here.

John T. Wiley, Sr. Died Tuesday at the Family Home

John Thomas Wiley, Sr., 82 years of age, died Tuesday evening at 7:15 o'clock. His death came as a distinct surprise to his many friends in Canyon. He has been in poor health for the past few months, but was able to be up most of the time of late, and Saturday attended the celebration at the College, greeting his many friends from every section of the Panhandle.

Mr. Wiley was truly a pioneer of West Texas. Reared in Alabama, he came to Texas in 1885, and engaged in teaching and stock farming. For years he taught in the schools of the state, and his life was devoted to upbuilding the educational and cultural life of the Plains. In order that his own family might have the advantages of higher education, Mr. Wiley moved to Canyon twenty-one years ago. The two youngest children of the family are degree graduates of W. T. He was always a great friend of the educational institutions of Texas, and stood for their development. His last days were spent in celebrating the 25th anniversary of the college which he belived in, and for which he had done much during his life in Canyon.

The funeral services were held this morning at 10:00 o'clock at the home, conducted by Rev. J. O. Quattlebaum, pastor of the Methodist church, of which he has always been a consistent member. Burial followed at the Plainview Cemetery, under the direction of the Griggs - Thompson Funeral home.

Surviving is the wife, Mrs. John T. Wiley; two sons, H. M. Wiley of Wheeler, and John T. Wiley, Jr., of Borger; three daughters, Mrs. George W. Walters of Houston, Mrs. Keith Angus Catto of Plainview, Miss Almeda Wiley of Borger.

Tom H. Taylor of Brownwood made his annual visit to the Canyon Rotary Club Tuesday as Governor of the 41st district. He reported that he was highly pleased with conditions he found in the local club and complimented the membership for the excellent work it was accomplishing.

Governor Taylor spoke Tuesday morning to the high school students and at the chapel period of W. T. As president of Howard Payne College he is highly interested in education.

Business is most important; it supports the home, the school and the church. It is solving the world's problems, and international peace can be accomplished only through the channels of the business man who deals fairly with his customers, stated the speaker.

Visitors present were: C. R. McAfee, H. B. Fain, A. B. Jones, J. Howard Paul, R. E. Wertz, W. W. Rusk, H. B. Lantz, Gene Settle, all of Amarillo; Dr. C. E. Donnell, Rev. J. R. Hicks, Ford Fronabarger, S. H. Condron, O. T. Barker and Mrs. Irby Carruth, all of Canyon.
